THIS HAIR WASH has been prepared by us for the last 30 years. Its sale is steadily increasing in India, the Straits and Japan. It possesses all the qualities of a Hair Oil or Pomade, without their stickiness. It induces a healthy action of the scalp and nourishes the Hair. Dandruff never appears whilst it is in use. It contains more but the best ingredients, and the greatest care is taken in the compounding. When the Hair falls off after fever or any other sickness this Wash will surely prove of the greatest value.

No Fire Insurance has been effected.

LORD BEACONSFIELD'S "ENDY-MION."

"Endymion," Lord Beaconsfield's new novel in three volumes, has been issued. The book opens in the period immediately previous to the Reform Bill. It closes shortly after the establishment of the Second Empire. The hero of the novel is a disciplined and decorous edition of Vivian Grey; a Harry Coningsby, without his irresponsibility of spirit. Endymion starts upon his career somewhat chastened by the influence of the reverse which have come upon his father. He has but one idea to retrieve the fame of the family, and to become, as his ancestors have been before him, a Privy Councillor and Minister of State. He is assisted in this design by his twin sister, Myra, and it is the friendship of the two—the absorbing, self-sacrificing devotion of the peerless, beautiful girl to the miraculously good young man, who is her brother, which supplies one of the chief contrasts of interest in the book. Lord Beaconsfield has endeavoured to invest with pathos the character and career of these two young persons.

We are introduced to the hero and the heroine very early in the first volume. Mr. and Mrs. Ferrars have a grand dinner party, and their son and daughter are duly allowed to appear at dessert.

With the dessert, not without some ceremony, were introduced the two most remarkable guests of the entertainment, and these were the twins; children of singular beauty, and dressed, if possible, more fancifully and brilliantly than their mamma. They resembled each other, and had the same brilliant complexion, rich chestnut hair, delicately arched brows, and dark blue eyes. Though only eight years of age, a most unchildlike self-possest and distinguished them. The expression of their countenances was highly, graceful, and supercilious. Their beautiful features seemed quite unimpassioned, and they moved as if they expected everything to yield to them. The girl, whose long ringlets were braided with pearls, was ushered with great ceremony into the room, and her brother, who was placed by Mrs. Ferrars, was soon engaged in intriguing tasteless, while she seemed apparently unconscious of any one being present, except when she replied to those who addressed her with a stare and a haughty monocle-like. The boy, in a black velvet jacket with large Spanish buttons of silver filigree, a shirt of lace, and a waistcoat of white satin, shone with reserve, but some consciousness, to the good-natured but half-humorous inquiries of the husband of Zenobia.

The noble author does not tell us what was the opinion formed by the company of these two dreadful children. The little monsters are made to talk in a style worthy of their Spanish, button, and monocle ringlets. To the friendly question of Lord Pomery, "When do you go to school?" the boy replies, without the slightest emotion, and not withdrawing his attention from the glass he was tasting, or even looking at his inquirer. "I shall go to Christ Church, and then I shall go into Parliament." Mr. Ferrars' private secretary playfully says to the little girl, "Myra, I hope you have not forgotten your engagement to me, which you made at Wimbleton two years ago?" "What engagement?" the small lady haughtily inquires. "To marry me;" and then comes the answer, "Accompanied by a glance of contempt, "I should not think of marrying anyone who was not in the House of Lords!"

The social condition of London at the time the story opens is well described by Lord Beaconsfield, and then we have an account of the Established Church of the period.

The English Church had no competent leaders among the clergy. The spirit that has animated and disturbed our later times seemed quite dead, and no one anticipated its resurrection. The bishops had been selected from the gentry, men profoundly ignorant of the condition and the wants of the country. To have edited a Greek play with second-rate success, or to have been the tutor of some considerable patrician, was the qualification then deemed desirable and sufficient for an office which at this day is at least reserved for eloquence and energy. The social influence of the Episcopal bench was nothing. A prelate was rarely seen in the saloons of Zenobia. It is since the depths of religious thought have been probed, and the influence of woman in the spread and sustenance of religious feeling has again been recognised, that this fascinating and fashionable prelates have become favoured guests in the refined saloons of the mighty, and while apparently indulging in the vanities of the hour, have re-established the influence which in old days guided a Matilda or the mother of Constantine.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferrars, with their son and daughter, are subsequently compelled to exchange the brilliant life of London for the economic tranquillity of a Berkshires manor house, and in their new home the family make other acquaintances than the Thorntons, and amongst them Nigel Penruddock, the son of the rector of the parish, of whose tendencies and aspirations a fair idea may be formed from the following dialogue:—

"In my opinion there is only one thing for a man to be in this age," said Nigel.

"He should go into the Church."

"The Church!" said Endymion.

"There will soon be nothing else left," said Nigel.

"The Church must last for ever."

"It was founded by a rock."

"It is built upon a rock."

"God; all other governments have been founded by men."

"When they are destroyed, and the process of destruction seems rapid, there will be nothing left to govern mankind except the Church."

"Indeed!" said Endymion.

"My father is thoroughly high and dry."

"My father is not the brightest idea of Church

Minister. He was witty and fanciful, and though capricious and bad-tempered, could flatter and caress. At Cambridge he had introduced the new Oxford heresy, of which Nigel Penruddock was a votary. Walder share prayed and fasted, and swore, by a Latin and Stratford. He took, however, a more eminent degree at Paris than at his original Alma Mater, and becoming passionately addicted to French literature, his views respecting both Church and State became modified—at least in private. His entrance into English society had been highly successful, and as he had enjoyed a share of vanity and was by no means free from worldliness, he had enjoyed, and was successful, became pallid, even with the intensity of disease. There was a monotony in the splendour of aristocratic life which wearied him, and for some time he had persuaded himself that the only people who understood the secret of existence were the family under whose roof he lodged.

Meanwhile Myra is about to take up her residence at the palace of Mr. Neuchatel-Hainault House—the delight of its master, whose stables are almost as fine as those of Chantilly, whose conservatories and forcing-houses teem with the fruits and flowers of all the tropics, the chef of whose kitchen the greatest celebrity in Europe, and where "Sunday is always great day." There it is that the Royal Exchange and the Stock Exchanges are fully represented, and those of its members who are favoured with invitations are given the opportunity of calling on the police, and occasionally M.P.'s of note or promise, and occasionally Secretary of the Treasury, or a Privy Councillor. "Tutu," says Mr. Neuchatel pleasantly, "makes all men equal." Endymion, of course, becomes a regular visitor at Hainault House, and, we must add, as the brother of Lady Rochampton, became absorbed in the personal regard which his Minister soon entertained for his secretary. Mr. Wilton found a pleasure in formulating the mind of Endymion to the consideration and comprehension of public affairs; he spoke to him both of men and things without reserve; revealed to him the characters of leading personages on both sides, illustrated their future; taught him the real condition of parties in Parliament, rarely to be found in newspapers; and, finally, when he was sufficiently initiated, obtained for his secretary—a key for his cabinet boxes, which left little of the business of government unknown to Endymion.

Mr. Bertie Tremaine, who had early succeeded to the family estate, lived in Grosvenor Street, and in becoming style. His house was furnished with luxury, and some taste. The boy received his guests in a library, well stored with political science, and adorned with the busts of celebrated statesmen, and a grand political sofa, which was a young gentleman of ambition, and who wished to have credit for politeness, and a good name.

He had a sincere and profound conviction that no man or woman ever acted except from selfish and interested motives. Society was intolerable to him; that of his own sex and station were beyond his comprehension; their conversation consisted only of two subjects, horses and women, and he had long exhausted both. As for female society, if they were ladies, it was expected that, in some form or other, he should make love to them, and he had no sentiment. If he took refuge in the demimonde, he encountered vulgarity, and that, to Lord Montfort, was insufferable. He had tried them in every capital, and vulgarity was the badge of all their tribe. He had attempted to read; a woman had told him to read French novels, but he found them only a clumsy representation of the life which, for years, he had practically been leading. An accident made him acquainted with Rabelais and Montaigne; and he had relished them, for he had a fine sense of humour. He might have pursued these studies, and perhaps have found in them a high and occasional interest; but a clever boy he was, and he had contemplated following the same line, though with larger and higher objects than his ancestors. Being a man of considerable and versatile ability, and of ample fortune, with the hereditary opportunity which he possessed, he had a right to aspire, and, as his vanity more than equalled his talents, his estimate of his own career was not mean. Unfortunately, before he left Harrow, he was deprived of his borough, and this catastrophe eventually occasioned a considerable change in the views and conduct of Mr. Bertie Tremaine.

But Endymion is about to find himself in the company of more illustrious personages: Berengaria, Lily, and the Countess of Whig, who has taken him into her house, and who he has gone to try to dissipate his weariness in disguise, had convinced him that there were a worthy human person, an assumption which was doubtful, upon his utter insignificance.

Endymion enters the House of Commons as member for North-borough, and succeeds there as elsewhere. Nothing now is wanted but that he should be more completely equipped with all the internal appliances for achieving a high position in the State, and at a very convenient moment Lord Montfort dies. Endymion had for some time had reason to believe that his ladyship regarded him with more than friendship, and this is how their betrothal comes about:—

"And so it happened; they rose early and arrived in town in time to give them a tolerably long morning. She took him to her house in Carlton Gardens, and showed to him exactly how it was all she wanted; accommodation for a first-rate establishment; and then the reception-rooms, few houses in London could compare with them; a gallery in three saloons. That then followed the dining-room, and so on. It is a dining-room, not a banqueting hall; she said, 'which we had at Montfort House, but still it is much larger than most dining-rooms in London. But I think this room, at least I hope you do, quite charming, and she took him to a room almost as large as the dining-room, and looking into the garden. It was fitted up with exquisite taste; calm subdued colouring, with choice marble busts of statesmen, ancient and of our times, but the shelves were empty. They are empty,' she said, 'but the volumes to fill them are always collected. Yes,' she added, in a tremulous voice, and slightly pressing on the arm on which she leaned. 'If you will deign to accept it, this is the chamber I have prepared for you. The great day arrived, and at the George, Hanover Square, the Right Hon. the Earl of Rochampton, K.G., was united to Miss Ferrars. Mr. Penruddock joined their hands. His son Nigel had been invited to assist him, but did not appear, though Myra had written to him. The great world had assembled in force, and Endymion observed Mr. and Mrs. Rodney and Imogene in the body of the church. After the ceremony there was an entertainment in Portland Place, and the world of art and literature and the presents were remarkable for number and splendour. Myra could not conceal her astonishment at possessing so many friends; but it was the fashion for all Lord Rochampton's acquaintances to make him an object of interest, and he was soon a prominent figure in the demimonde. It was fitted up with exquisite taste; calm subdued colouring, with choice marble busts of statesmen, ancient and of our times, but the shelves were empty. HEALTH, STRENGTH, & ENERGY.

DR. LALOR'S
PHOSPHODYNE.

Trade Mark—PHOSPHODYNE.

DISCOVERED AND SO NAMED, A.D. 1862.

BY R. D. LALOR, M. D.

DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE is a Pure Solution of PHOSPHORUS in combination with the Vegetable Alkaloids Quinine, Cynipidine, Sanguinaria, &c., prepared by a Chemical process known only to DR. LALOR, producing a remarkably Elegant and Pleasant Tasted Preparation, equal to the best Wine, Prefectly free from Strychnine and all other Dangerously Active Drugs; superseding the numerous objectionable forms of Phosphorous Pills, Pillules, Oils, and other Numerous Mixtures with which the Market has been flooded since the Phosphoric Treatment of Disease was first made Public by DR. R. D. LALOR, in 1862.

To Residents in India, China, and the Colonies. It will prove invaluable as a Remedy for Liver Tonic and a Vitalizing Restorative.

This Phosphoric combination, the Wonder of Modern Chemistry, is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical profession to be unequalled for its power in regaining and elaborating the Vitality of the Body; by its supplying all the essential constituents of the BLOOD, BRAIN, and NERVE SUBSTANCE; and for developing all the Powers and Functions of the system to the highest degree; by its being agreeable to the palate, and innocent in its action. While retaining its wonderful properties, it acts as a Specific, surpassing all the known Therapeutic Agents of the PRESENTAGE, for the speedy and permanent cure of all derangements of the Nervous and Blood Systems, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Mental and Physical Depression, Insanity for Study or Business, Nerves in the Head and Ear, Loss of Energy and Appetite, Indigestion and Liver Complaints, Flatulence, Nervous Fancies, Hypochondria, Nervous Debility in all its Stages, Loss of Memory, Softening of the Brain, Paralysis, Affections of the Spinal Column, Lumbar, Sciatic, Affections of the Kidneys, Bladder, Urinary Deposits, &c., Ague, Spasms, Asthma, Consumption, Chronic Bronchitis, Scrofula and Skin Diseases, Rickets in children, Wasting or Shrinking of the Muscles, Impaired Nutrition, Impoverished Blood, Premature Decline, and all morbid conditions of the system, dependent upon the deficiency of the Vital Forces, whether arising from Climate, Brain Fag, or whatever cause.

DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE being a natural RESTORATIVE, its Emerging Effects are not followed by corresponding reaction; but are permanent; and are frequently shown from the first day of its administration by a remarkable increase of Nervous Power, with a feeling of Vigour, Strength, and to which the patient has long been unaccustomed. DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE gives back to the Human structure in a suitable form the Phosphoric or Vitalizing element of life which has been wasted, and exerts an important influence directly on the Brain, Spinal Marrow, and Nervous System, of a Nutritive, Tonic, and Invigorating character; thereby checking all Wasting of the Vital Fluid, and the more Exhauing Process of Life, maintaining that buoyant Energy of the Brain and Muscular System which renders the Mind cheerful, Happy, brilliant, and energetic; entirely overcoming that dull, Inactive and sluggish disposition which many persons experience in all their actions. A Marvelous Restorative for Brain Tumors, Clergyman, Business Man, and all who are engaged in the Competitive Struggle.

PHOSPHODYNE, the Antidote for Climatic Diseases. The medicinal properties of DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE have spread far and wide throughout every Nation and Country in the World, the natural outcome of which is, that the sale has now become enormous in India, China, Africa, and other Hot Climates. This increased demand is attributable to the fact of its possessing in the most perfect and available a most valuable remedy in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, and other Hot Climates.

CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood stated that Dr. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the Inventor of Chlorodyne, that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, being the Inventor was deliberately untrue; which he regretted had been sworn to. Examined Hospital-Physicians of London stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the discoverer of Chlorodyne; that they prescribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr. Browne's. See Times, July 12, 1864.

The public, therefore, are cautioned against using any other than DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.

IS THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

MEDICAL USE AND ACTION.

This invaluable remedy induces quiet, refreshing sleep, relieves pain, calms the system, restores the deranged functions, and stimulates healthy action of the secretions of the body, without causing any of those unpleasant sensations attending the use of opium. Old and young may take it at all hours and times when requisite. Thousands of persons testify to its marvellous good effects and wonderful cures, while medical men extol its virtues most extensively.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for coughs, consumption, bronchitis, asthma.

CHLORODYNE effectively checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—diphtheria, fever, croup, ague.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in diarrhea, and in the only specific in cholera and dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of epilepsy, hysteria, palpitation, and spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative for neuralgia, rheumatism, gout, cancer, toothache, meningitis, &c.

EXTRACTS FROM MEDICAL OPINIONS.

The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in Cholera was Chlorodyne.

See Lancet, Dec. 31, 1864.

From A. Montague, Esq., late Inspector of Hospitals, who informed the Examiners that he had been impeded by Dr. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE in his examination of the medical properties of PHOSPHODYNE, which rendered the Examination of the Medical Properties of PHOSPHODYNE.

Dr. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE is the only Legitimate and genuine PHOSPHODYNE.

BEWARE of imitators and adulterants. DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE is the only genuine PHOSPHODYNE.

CAUTION.—The Name DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE is blown in the glass of each bottle, and the Glassophore is manufactured and is obtainable only from Dr. LALOR'S Laboratory, London, England.

WHOLESALE and EXPORT HOUSES are specially requested to NOTE this, and to pass this information through the London Houses of English firms of known repute, especially to ensure their being supplied with a Special Medicine prepared by DR. LALOR.

PUBLIC NOTICE AND WARNING.—To Medicines and Drugs in the Public in Great Britain, India, China, and the Colonies.—DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE is the only Medicine bearing the name PHOSPHODYNE that has the Sanction of the British Government, and for which Her Majesty's Register of TRADE MARKS has granted Certificates to DR. LALOR ONLY. Therefore DR. LALOR'S is the only Legitimate and genuine PHOSPHODYNE.

CAUTION.—None genuine without the words "DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S OVERWHELMING medical testimony according to the best evidence."

DR. LALOR'S CHLORODYNE was administered, the patient recovered.

Extract from the General Board of Health, London, as to its efficacy in Cholera.—"So strongly are we convinced of the immense value of this remedy, that we cannot too forcibly urge the necessity of adopting it in all cases."

See leading article, Pharmaceutical Journal, August 1, 1863, which states that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the inventor of Chlorodyne; that it is always right to use his preparation when Chlorodyne is ordered.

CAUTION.—None genuine without the words "DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S OVERWHELMING medical testimony according to the best evidence."

DR. LALOR'S CHLORODYNE was administered, the patient recovered.

CAUTION.—The Name DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE is blown in the glass of each bottle, and the Glassophore is manufactured and is obtainable only from Dr. LALOR'S Laboratory, London, England.

THE CHINA REVIEW.

THE widely-expressed regret at the discontinuance of Notes & Queries on China and Japan, has induced the publishers of this journal to issue a publication similar in object and style, but slightly modified in certain details.

THE CHINA REVIEW, or Notes and Queries on the Far East, is issued at intervals of two months, each number containing about 60 octavo pages, occasionally illustrated with lithographs, photographs, woodcuts, &c., should the papers published demand, and the circulation justify, such extra matter.

The subscription is £1.00 at $6.50 postage paid per annum, payable to non-residents in Hongkong half-yearly in advance.

The publication includes all original and selected upon the Arts and Sciences, Ethnology, Folklore, Geography, History, Literature, Mythology, Manners and Customs, Natural History, Religion, &c., &c., of China, Japan, Mongolia, Tibet, the Eastern Archipelago, and the "Far East," generally. A more detailed list of subjects upon which contributions are especially invited is incorporated with each number. Original contributions in Chinese, Latin, French, German, Spanish, Italian or Portuguese, are admissible. Endeavours are made to present a resume in each number of the contents of the most recent works bearing on Chinese matters. Great attention is also paid to the Review department.

Notes and Replies are classified together as "Notes" (head references being given, when furnished, to previous Notes or Queries), as are also those queries which contain no new information, furnish no unpublished details concerning the matter in hand. It is desireable to make the Queries as proper as brief and as much to the point as possible.

The China Review for July and August, 1875, is at hand. It says that forty-two essays were sent in to compete for the best paper on the advantages of Christianity for the development of a State. All our learned societies should subscribe to this scholarly and enterprising Review. It is a sixty-paged, bi-monthly, répertoire of what scholars are ascertaining about China. The lecture on Chinese Poetry in this volume is alone worth the price of the Review. Address China Review, Hongkong—Northern Christian Advocate (U.S.).

Traminer's Oriental Record contains the following notice of the China Review:—"This is the title of a publication, the first number of which has lately reached us from Hongkong, where it has been set up to us in some respects a continuation of Notes and Queries on China and Japan, the extensiveness of which is equal to that of the two journals, but has not been much regretted in Europe, as well as in China. The present publication, judging by the number now before us, is intended to occupy a position, as regards China and the neighbouring countries, somewhat similar to that which has been filled in India by the Calcutta Review.—The great degree of attention that has been bestowed of late years upon the investigation of Chinese literature, antiquities, and social developments, to say nothing of linguistic studies, has led to the accumulation of important stores of information, rendering some such channel of publicity as is now provided extremely desirable; and contributions of much interest may fairly be looked for from the members of the foreign consular service, the Chinese Customs corps, and the missionary body, among whom a high degree of Chinese scholars are now abundantly scattered, and who are severely represented in the first number of the Review by papers highly creditable to their respective authors. In a paper on Dr. Legge's She King, by the Rev. E. J. Etel, to which the place of honour is deservedly given, an excellent summary is presented of the chronological problems and arguments involved in connexion with this important work. Some translations from Chinese novels and plays are marked by both accuracy and freshness of style; and an account of the career of the Chinese post-stateman of the eleventh century, Su Tung-p'o, by Mr. E. C. Bowra, is not only historically valuable, but is also distinguished by its literary grace. Beside notices of new books relating to China and the East, which will be a useful feature of the Review, if carried out with punctuality and detail, we are glad to notice that 'Notes and Queries' are destined to find a place in its pages also. It is to be hoped that this other journal, containing Chinese subjects may take a similar degree of literary seal to that which was displayed during the lifetime of its predecessor in the field, and that the China Review may receive the support necessary to insure its continuance. The publication is intended to appear every two months, and will form a substantial octavo magazine."

THE CHINESE MAIL.

This paper is not issued every day. The subscription is fixed at Four Dollars, or Seven Dollars, Fifty Cents including postage to Coast ports.

It is the first Chinese Newspaper issued under purely native direction. The chief support of the paper is, of course, derived from the native community, amongst whom also are to be found the contractors and securities necessary to place it on a business and legal footing.

The projectors, basing their estimates upon the most reliable information from the various Ports in China and Japan—from Australia, California, Singapore, Penang, Saigon, and other places frequented by the Chinese,—consider themselves justified in guaranteeing an ultimate circulation of between 3,000 and 4,000 copies. The advantages offered to advertisers are therefore unusually great, and the foreign community generally will find their interest to avail themselves of the field open to a paper of this description—conducted by native efforts, but objective and anti-obstructive in its aims. It on the one hand commands Chinese and English interest, on the other deserves every aid that can be given to it by foreigners like English journalists, columnists, &c., &c., Local, Shipping, and Commercial News and Advertisements.
